

Drive to LeMay Collection at Marymount

Come join the fun as we take a short drive to the LeMay Collection at Marymount. If you have never been to Marymount, you are in for a treat while viewing hundreds of cars!

When: Sept. 13

Time: Meet at Starbucks on Pearl St (2303 N. Pearl St, Tacoma) at 9:00 with a departure at 9:30

To get to the LeMay Collection, we will drive along the coast to Steilacoom, through the back roads of Joint Base Lewis-McCord with a short drive on the freeway, and more back roads to the museum.

Arrival at the LeMay should be at about 10:30. The museum is actually located between Spanaway and Parkland, though the address is Tacoma. The nearby main street is Pacific with numerous fast food restaurants. Check google maps for more details.

Plan on a picnic style lunch at the museum so bring whatever food and drink you desire. There is also a small snack bar but with limited items.

The reserved tour will start at noon and last about 2 hours covering three buildings and lots and lots of vehicles.

We will be allowed to park on the grass directly in front of the Main Building where we will have lunch and get our tickets. The price should be $20/person assuming we have a minimum of ten.

If you can't make the drive, but want to see the collection, no problem! Meet us at the museum at 10:30, (325 152nd St E, Tacoma), and wait until we are all there before getting your tickets to ensure the reduced rate.

Please RSVP to Larry Kanaster at 253-566-2312, or LarryKanaster@gmail.com, if you are thinking about going so we can have maps available for the drive and also to let the LeMay know of the number of visitors so they can schedule the tour guides. Please RSVP by September 6 .
